Frauds layed away with a smothered sneeze, then he hesitated. What about that money I offered you? hadn't you better take it and clear up your debts?

There was silence. Scribner found it hard to believe that the man knew it would be no easy matter to win Iris de Fontaine, and marriage was out of the question. He had to get out of his aunt. Clear of debt, he could hold on for another year or two, get a job, and then he could start his debts. It seemed mad to refuse, money was no object to Francis. But gamblers have a streak of pugnacious conscience, Fred Scribner still had a sense of honor left, a sense of decency.

No, thanks, he said thickly. I'll middle through on my own, somehow.

Leaning against the railing, Francis watched him walk away. He waited a moment, then, with a sigh, avoiding the hill, he climbed the staircase to his own flat. He entered the drawing room, and saw that Iris, in spite of the light, looked slowly round the room. It mocked him, it seemed empty and bare. Iris had come to him, she had empathized the fact that her body was not skin and bone.

What can you come for?

I really don't know, he repeated. I received a bit of a shock yesterday, I suppose, altered my whole outlook in life. Fact is, Aunt Mary, I'm in love, and I'm not going to let you stop me from getting a girl to get a breath of fresh air—and to look at you.

Iris had a moment to look at him. I am lovely, and I said, I'm going to do just as you said better go back to the Bankruptcy Court. If you don't? You'll be in jail for a long time.

Scribner smoked in silence for some time. Presently Lady Mary rose, took the great basket under her arm, and her face was a picture of distress, and stalked across the lawn.

You can wheel the barrow.

He followed her to the rose garden and waited until she was gone.

I love him, he repeated.

In which music hall does he perform?

Practically she hasn't a penny in the world, but I can pay my debts, and I can get a job, and I can live in a cottage on crabs and kisses.

She "clucked" at the Alabama.

Presently Iris, with a look of beauty and grace, the roses now scented with spring flowers. The air was filled with the sound of birds, the hum of bees, the sunbeams shone to and fro in the sunshine. Undoubtedly life was worth living, and love.

He passed quickly through the rose garden, and then he drove away.

A few deer were browsing in the woods, and the birds sang.

Beyond, on the right, the old soldiers' cemetery, the scene of Lady Mary's chief joy. A long stone balustrade guarded the upper terrace, and the flowers were now smothered with red and white roses. Scribner mounted the steps, walked quickly across the terrace, and then the open windows of the dining room. As a rule he respected the conventions and the rules of society.

But the diningroom was empty, breakfast had been cleared away.

Scribner had to think, when he altered his mind, and stepped on to the terrace again he saw that the flowers were now smothered with a small brown object huddled against a blaze of scarlet geraniums. A curtain had been drawn across the terrace, and the steps again walked across the lawn. Lady Mary did not know what had happened, and her hands and knees before the flower bed, by her side a small barrow which emitted a horrible odour. Trowels, Body Covered With Running Sores, Could Not Sleep From Itching and Pain, Cross and Fretful. Tried Fifty Remedies Without Result. Cured in Nine Days by Cuticura Soap and Ointment.

52 Chalmers St., Montreal, Quebec. A five-year-old boy was suffering from the skin disease which the doctor said is "grave". His body was covered with sores, and he could not sleep from the pain.

The trouble started with a pimple, but the boy's mother made it worse. The eruptions appeared in his face and then spread to his body.

The boy could not sleep at night from the pain, and he did not know what to do with him. He made him cross and fretful. If I have to pay the doctor's bill, I will not be able to afford it.

As last I got a sample of Cuticura Soap and Ointment, and after a few days the sores began to disappear. I then bought a full-sized cake of Cuticura Soap and one box of Cuticura Ointment, and the sores disappeared entirely. I am using Cuticura Soap freely, and then applied the Cuticura Ointment. He had suffered from the skin disease for nine days before I started to use the Cuticura Soap and Ointment, and nine days after the use of Cuticura Soap and Ointment he was completely cured.

forks and rakes surrounded her, and in a large pile of earth and plants waiting to be headed out, and cuttings.

Scribner stood beside her, grimly watching her while she worked. She wore a pair of earth-stained gloves; the leather on the fingers and the side pockets protruded a pair of elastic side boots. The dress blew wide with her movements, revealing a mass of wrinkles. Now and then she muttered incompletely, and then she muttered incompletely, to herself, but her beloved flowers.

Heilo, Aunt Mary!

She did not raise her head. Yet for a moment, she paused in her occupation, then the plants, and filled them with manure. Scribner held his breath until she was gone.

Up early, aren't you? Lady Mary said in a dry, brittle voice. I haven't had time to get up.

No, caught the seven-forty-five from Euston, walked on. Glorious morning, isn't it? What that evil smelling smoke! You must be careful you don't get a cold.

Lady Mary lovingly dug her hands into the soil, and then she scattered the manure over the plants.

Don't you feel it? She didn't go away. You won't get a penny from me.

Scribner took the basket off the handle of the wheelbarrow.

Lady Mary looked up. In spite of the dry, withered skin, the countenance was agreeable, her eyes were as bright and alert as those of a bird. Her hands were small, and she emphasized the fact that her body was not skin and bone.

What can you come for?

BRITAIN'S GREAT MAN

BRITISH PRO-CONSUL Rules Half Million Square Miles that He Wrested From France

Sir Frederick Lugard is the ruler of Nigeria in the name of whom the French publicists acclaimed as one of the greatest statesmen of the century. He has squared broadsides in the race for one of the greatest prizes remaining.

His career comprises matter enough for a dozen "Loyalty" books. He is a man of the Civil Service, General of the Army, and Governor of a province of Africa.

The little girl, Miss Glascow, his wife, separated eight months ago, and the mother, who is a giantess, has not yet found another man to marry. She has calmly made war in her own name. "These operations (against the Emir of Sokoto), have

Court Asked to Decide Whether who is Properly Ruled or Not

Tracked by Detectives

In Paris, a rather strange question whether a little girl of 9 had been properly ruled by her mother, who is in the Paris law courts on the evidence of sheriff's officers, who had been sent to watch her manner of life.

The little girl, Miss Glascow, is the wife of Sir Frederick Lugard, the man who separated from his wife eight months ago.

“Dad, do you think we’ll make a winning?” said a 11-year-old boy to his father, over on the south side the other day. “That’s the spirit of young Canada on the homesteads to the west. They say ‘we’ and talk about ‘winnings.’

Premier Borden of Manitoba says he is a “sleek man.” This doctor is the old country for this valiant old knight reading the papers on account of his heart. They were wise doctors. He might have read some of those kind things the Liberal papers have been saying about his tactics in the Macdonald election.

There is considerable talk in the “sleek” circle, that a general election is imminent, and that a decision on the election without a redistribution of seats in the West would be utterly folly with another appeal to the “British born,” the over represented east would immediately change the vote of the grossly under-represented West. In this entire, the Liberal members, on the government some uneasy moments when he challenged them on behalf of the Liberal party to have a redistribution and let the people vote on this question. Isn’t that a fair proposal?

Ion? When Xmas is all over and you are beginning to get your sea legs again, you are liable to suffer a relapse when some cheerful fool says: “Hello old chapie, what did you eat ‘n’ Xmas?” Calling to a man’s mind, who has been to the West, the impossible necrosis, death-dealing clowns, and misfit slippers, is often fatal.

Here a couple of Bill Laird’s of the south, Bill was shaying a gentleman from Wetaskiwin the other day, and at the same time, Billy Johnston was doing junks on the piano.

“Who is the guy on the piano?” said Bill.

“He plays in the theatre here, said Bill.

The other day a lady took some clothes into Bill to be sent to Calvary Laundry. When she called for them on Saturday morning, Friday, of course, they weren’t there. She asked out slippery friend the reason.

“Well, you see, Madam,” said Willy, “there was a natural gas explosion in the laundry at Calgary and they hadn’t got the laundry back yet.”

GRAIN GROWERS.

Last Friday evening in Wainwright Hall, Mr. Housman, of Strathmore, addressed over one hundred members and guests of the Great Western Grain Co. and the Great Western Grains, the official organ of the association. F. E. McPhee, president, was present and advanced in his speech in connection with the history and many factors’ organizations, past and present and gave a lucid and appreciated talk. According to Mr. Housman, the farmers care for the 11th has to suffice a large and growing market, and that is the reason he attached strongly machine companies, who sold the farmer worthless machines; one took everything he owned. Some humor was injected into the proceedings by the fact that the part of old Fred W. J. Kennedy, the determined organizer, had ever sold a certain make of grain separator. Mr. Shreeby protested that W. R. Hoyle, the latest gentleman, was sold an eyash at the tea with a nomination.

The speaker of the evening took a long at the Bennett-Alken elevator company.

Mr. Harry Walker, of Rocky Coule who is visiting with Rev. Lucia and son on the McIntoshes at Hoskins on Sunday.

An Exciting Runaway

While returning home from Hoskins on Thursday, Mrs. J. Zimmerman and daughter Bertha had a bad accident which might have been more serious. As Mrs. Zimmerman got out of the buggy, she slipped and fell, and through the horse started to run. Mrs. Zimmerman grabbed the bit of one of the horses and tried to hold them but after the horses had made two circuits dragging her with them, the buggy was thrown wing and she was thrown to the ground. The horses got away and made for the corral and caught. Charlie Waller, brother of Mrs. Zimmerman, saw the horses start and ran to give assistance, but as the horses had started to run again and the neckyoke came off, the horses ran away and Mrs. Zimmerman was taken to the house out of town where she was badly shaken up and was quite unconscious.

The drayman was in the stable when the dray horse was in the corral and caught. Charlie Waller fastened the team to the buggy and started back to see how bad his master was hurt. The team started again and the neckyoke came off again and the horses ran away and Mrs. Zimmerman was taken to the house out of town where she was badly shaken up and was quite unconscious.

The drayman was in the stable when the dray horse was in the corral and caught. Charlie Waller fastened the team to the buggy and started back to see how bad his master was hurt. The team started again and the neckyoke came off again and the horses ran away and Mrs. Zimmerman was taken to the house out of town where she was badly shaken up and was quite unconscious.

TO-DAY

BLUE GRASS

Monday December 24th. Santa Claus visited Blue Grass school. A program was ushered by the school children which was well appreciated by the large audience. The program closed with a "Mother Goose" play in which the children acquitted themselves creditably. T. Morgan presided as chairman.

After the program, the candles were lit upon the prettily decorated Christmas trees. Just as they shone forth brightly, Santa drove up with a jingle of bells.

When the welcome had subsided, he distributed bags of candy to the children, and the presents from the tree.

Here is the program:

Song by the school, "Sleigh Bells."

Recitation, Tena Benjamin.

Recitation, Olancy Benjamin.

Song, Quartette.

Recitation, Joyce Ladd.

Recitation, Lois Eira.

"Goodnight Song," by Gladys Benjamin, Shirley Ladd, Anna Eira, and Lionel Benjamin.

Recitations were well followed.

All enjoyed home filled with the Christmas spirit.

The C.F.A. or Blue Grass are asked to attend a meeting at the school Saturday January 4th in afternoon. Farmers, wake up to the many advantages received by attending these meetings.

Businessmen, come out from the shadow of the prison walls of your habitation, and enjoy a few minutes talk with your neighbors. Keep alive, don't hibernate.

Sunday, January 5th, service will be held in the school.

School resumes January 5th. The journey made at the Christmas tree is towards a library for the children.

Lost! Stolen! or Strayed! A Christmas card. Anyone finding a Jack Rabbit running away with same, please return to its owner.

Teacher, "Now boys what do you think a fairy looks like?"

Student, "She's like a dog, a pig, a horse, or—"

Bright Boy, "It's like a pig!"

CHEMICALS IN WOOD.

Why Timber Cut in Winter is Better Than That Cut in Summer.

Timber cut in spring and in summer is not so durable as that cut in winter.
The durability depends upon the greater or less density, but also upon the presence of certain chemical compounds in the wood.

There is a large proportion of resins matter increases the durability, while the presence of easily soluble carbonyl and other diluting substances decreases durability. Resins are resinous gums. They are known to soften also the igneous tissue to a considerable degree.

During the summer months the wood of living trees contains eight times as much sulphuric acid and five times as much potassium as does the wood of the winter months. The presence of these two chemical substances during the growing season contributes the chief cause of the difference in the durability of timber within the wood and in preparing the wood for the different kinds of wood destroying fungi—Scientific American.

The Age of Great Gambler.

At the great gambling house in the city of Fort George, on Feb. 6, 1872, there was a debate in the house of commons on the thirty-nine articles.
And it was noticed that Fox spoke in favor of the article.

Hence Walpole suggests an explanation of "He had sat up playing at hazard at Almack's from Tuesday evening, the 8th of February, until the following day, 9th. An hour before he had recovered £12,000 that he had lost, and by that time he was at 6 o'clock, when he had ended losing £12,000 at the hazard.
He spoke in the debate above, went to dinner at 11:30 at night, from there to Woolwich, and when he got home at 7 the next morning he chance to Almack's again.
What he lost in the night was £10,000, and between 8 and 9 in the afternoon he set out for Newmarket."

A Blade of Grass.

As an English writer has written:
"Whenever you find a single blade of grass, however small, then you stand far above the majority of men. It is all the responsibility of a statesman."

Horace Walpole suggests an explanation

Horrible Examples.

Shang man only becomes English, but dreadful English becomes Chinese. When Lander was reading "Alice in Wonderland" he wrote to John Forster that it was a great poem, "but there are a few stems of dirt in it."

When the poet Henley complained "there is a tiger within my heart," he little knew what a horrific future his masterpiece was to see—Collier's.

For Appearance's Sake.

Bob is suddenly walking at midnight to the room in which that impudent wifey, entering the room, was very handsome, and therefore beautiful as they are distance, a distance from the beginning of life to the world, and its proud power to the sky. If you should choose to make a comparison with a rocky place carry it a little water for the sake of the thoughts that spring from it."
